Liability

Fly fishing for pike is not liable for any use of purchased products in any way.

Fly fishing and fly tying is not without risk. Here are some potential hazards:

- when you're casting streamers, you can hook yourself. Barbless hooks are easier to remove than barbed hooks.
- always use eye protection!
- playing fish on the fly reel is very nice but, if you don't let go of the reel knob in time and a fish takes a run, it can harm and even brake your fingers.
- chemicals (the glues we sell and that you may use) can be toxic so don't inhale and always ventilate when tying flies.
- fly tying materials can also be dangerous due to materials or various colouring paints that are sometimes used. Do not put flies or fly tying materials in your mouth to wet them.

The list of potential hazards is much longer. Please use common sense and be careful!
